

First Grade 2007-08 AIMSWEB Computation Test Results

Name _____

The AIMSWEB test is a nationally normed test which means that a student's score is compared to all students across the nation that are also taking the test. Even though a student might fall in the "average" range, it is important that a program of daily practice be used to strength their computational skills.

